Small Things

Sometimes, little things can be just the thing...for entertaining at home or for giving. What caught my eye this season: small portion sets for appetizers...cute little square plates and little square bowls (each about 2-1/2 inches across). They’re the Mozaik brand, made of a heavyweight plastic to serve hors d’oeuvres, snacks or desserts and come with little knives, forks, spoons.

Also perfect for mini tastings are four-inch-high glass parfait containers from Libbey (I call them “shooters”). In the summer I use them for gazpacho but they’d be perfect now for a smooth seafood bisque or squash soup, or a layered dessert, of course. A box of 12 comes with little steel spoons.

In this age of portion control, small bites of wonderful things can be perfect. You’ll find these in the seasonal aisle.

By now, you’ve surely seen the appliances being demonstrated...for making mini Whoopie pies or cute little donuts or cupcakes, etc. Start with a mix and bake in less than 10 minutes....warm and wonderful. Priced anywhere from $19.99 to $29.99 (depending on the particular unit), these would make nice gifts, especially for people with kids.

Also small is a new size of Wegmans Aqua Italian sparkling mineral water. Still beautifully blue like the original glass-bottled Aqua, the smaller 16.9 oz. container is recyclable plastic (PET, #1).

My last little holiday thing: the live tabletop Fraser Fir trees. When I look at them, I remember from my recent visit to Bottomley Farms in North Carolina that it took 7-8 years to get to this size, ready for you. Sometimes small things take time.
